SCOTS IN UTAH: A TARTAN DAY LECTURE

In celebration of Tartan Day, April 6, State History will host a brown-bag lecture on Scots in Utah.

Although Scotland is one of Europe's smallest nations, Scottish immigrants to Utah have had a big influence on the state's development. Fred Buchanan will discuss the role of Scots in Utah's geographic, social, cultural, technological, and entrepreneurial development. He will also raise the question: When does ethnicity and patriotism become social prejudice?

Buchanan, who is Professor Emeritus of Education Studies at the University of Utah, will give his lecture at noon, April 6, in the Rio Grande Depot (300 S. Rio Grande Street, Salt Lake City).
